

CMT Acquires Indianapolis-based Engineering Firm

Firm strengthens presence and accelerates growth in Indianapolis region.

Crawford, Murphy & Tilly Inc., (CMT) announced its acquisition of Engineering, Design, and Inspection Services, Inc. (EDIS), an Indianapolis-based professional services engineering firm. The move comes less than a year after CMT first established a regional office in Indianapolis and is seen as an opportunity to strengthen the firm's commitment to their clients in the region.

“Since opening our Indianapolis office earlier this year, we had the opportunity to work with EDIS on a number of initiatives,” said Brian Whiston, CMT president. “It quickly became evident that the strengths of EDIS would dovetail very nicely with capabilities of our firm.”

The entire EDIS staff has joined CMT where they will continue to provide design and inspection services for transportation, sewer, subdivision, and municipal infrastructure systems.
